About Us

The Marshall County FRN is a catalyst of change, an organization that is responsive to the needs and opportunities in the community. Partnering with community members and public and private organizations, the FRN develops innovative projects and provides needed resources for the area. The FRN's initiatives demonstrate our organization's commitment to community development in the region. Over the years, the FRN has worked on building a network of collaborative relationships within the county, understanding that our accomplishments are most successful when we are not acting alone.

The FRN began developing this Volunteer Resource Guide with the goal of increasing community engagement and involvement in volunteerism. Many organizations exist in Marshall County that provide needed and valuable services to residents that can greatly benefit from the assistance that volunteers provide. Our aim with this undertaking is to increase awareness of where volunteer needs exist, and to link these needs with those who are looking for ways to give back in their local communities. The FRN feels that involvement in volunteerism is an important component of community engagement and we hope that this guide will serve as a way for community members to become more involved with service opportunities in Marshall County and the surrounding areas.
